at the Rose Bowl to secure their regular-season finale on Friday night.

California in their regular-season finale on Sunday. The Bruins (5-6, 3-7) could finish with a winning record for the fifth time in Mora's six seasons. The 43-year-old Fisch has called every play this season and for the fifth time in Mora's six seasons.

UCLA went 46-30 under coach Chip Kelly and other big names. Fisch has been reaching out long enough to know how the process works. The fact that nobody would like to be the head coach.
football coach at an extremely prominent university,” Fisch said when asked directly if he wanted UCLA’s full-time job. “In this case right now, my mind is 100 percent on trying to get our seniors to 6-0 and to leave Coach Mora’s legacy as one that he was able to get five out of his six teams to bowl games.”

Fisch plans to lean on veteran Bruins defensive coordinator Tom Bradley for the finale and in any potential bowl game. Mora’s staff realizes it will probably be looking for new jobs within weeks, but Fisch also vowed to continue the Bruins’ recruiting efforts by selling UCLA as an institution with top academics, the Rose Bowl and the lavish Wasserman Football Center on campus.

“You guys have all seen what (Fisch) has done with the offense and how we’ve progressed as a team, and how he’s made us better, and what we could have been from the start,” senior center Scott Quessenberry said. “I think he’s going to bring great passion, great energy to this last game, and then on into the bowl game. I think if they’re thinking about Coach Fisch as the (permanent) guy, I think it would be a really wise decision.”
