Trump revokes Obama policy using race in school admissions

BY ERIC TUCKER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Trump administration is rescinding an Obama-era guidance that encouraged schools to take a student’s race into account to promote diversity in admissions.

The shift gives schools and universities the federal government’s blessing to take a race-neutral approach in admissions and enrollment decisions.

The affirmative action policies were among 21 documents rescinded by the Justice Department on Tuesday for being “unnecessary, outdated, of little or no public use or not consistent with the change in our effort to revert to the ‘rule of law’ and blamed past administrations for imposing them without any public notice or comment.

“That’s wrong, and it’s not good government,” Sessions said in a statement.

The action comes amid a high-profile court fight over admission at Harvard University as well as Supreme Court turnover expected to produce a more critical eye toward schools’ affirmative action policies.

“Justices are less likely to see race as a compelling interest in diversity programs than they once did,” said pulled the Justice Department’s guidance that encouraged race to be one of several factors in the admission process.

It's not the beans, it's how you use them

The southwestern edge of Hawaii's Big Island includes the slopes of Kilauea Volcano, both of which boast coffee plantations turned into old lava fields. The climate in this region is perfect for coffee, and our coffee suitcase included with bags of local, freshly roasted product. Also, no one is our Allisfl rentals stocked a decent coffee maker, or even French press. Each time I opened my suit case in a new rental, I was tortured by the release of airborne coffee particles, while upon the kitchen countertops sat the same worthless Mr. Coffee that had stalled us from place to place. Dante would have been impressed with my trial.

I did not bear this injury without a fight, but could not understand the outlets of expensive coffee trying, and, finally, to brew a decent cup I adjusted the ratio of cups of coffee grounds to water, adjusted the grind, but it never tasted nearly as good as it should have. I'm not talking about cheap beans and dump, syrupy bitterness of espresso, which is made by forcing boiling water through finely ground coffee beans. I'm seeking a better machine, drinking drip coffee the way it's meant to be enjoyed, a melding of earth and scent. The perfect solution for those who want to save money and空间butcrave outdoors gardening for those who want to save money and get less espresso out of the same amount of beans, the espresso is of higher quality.

The idea of a ristretto shot is similar to the first cold-pressing of olive oil, or the skimming of cream from milk. Imagine you spilled some chocolate chips on the beach; if you scoop them up with big handfuls you will get a lot of sand, but if you use tongs to pick them up, you will get chocolate chips and no sand.
